

Dr. Scott Boruchov received his undergraduate degree in Psychology from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, MI, followed by his medical degree from New York Medical College in Valhalla, NY. He continued his medical education in diagnostic radiology from North Shore University Hospital in Manhasset, NY, and concluded his training with a body imaging fellowship at Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center in New York, NY.

While Dr. Boruchov specializes in cross-sectional imaging, he is also passionate about mammography, and ran his own breast center for several years. Dr. Boruchov and his wife, Andrea, share six kids ranging in age from 14 to 26, and two dogs, a Havanese and an Australian labradoodle. Dr. Boruchov's interests include traveling, skiing, hiking, photography, and attending concerts, but most of all, he enjoys spending time with his family.
