

Dr. David Pierce's academic journey began earning a Bachelor of Science in Biology from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, followed by his medical degree from the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Chicago. He pursued his diagnostic radiology residency at the University of Washington in Seattle, where he also concluded his training with an interventional radiology fellowship.

Passionate about patient care, Dr. Pierce strives to utilize cutting-edge technologies and minimally invasive procedures, with clinical interests focused on interventional oncology and women's health, including fibroid treatment and chronic pelvic pain.

Outside of work, Dr. Pierce values family time with his wife and two sons. He enjoys running, recently completing his first half-marathon, as well as hiking and skiing. Relocating from Chicago to be closer to mountains and natural beauty, he aims to provide his family with an enriching environment.
